WAR ON THE ROCKS

A new approach to Iran: Huddle, Block, and tackle

Avner Golov / April 12, 2017

When dealing with Iran, President Donald Trump aspires to make it clear that he does not adhere to the policy of his predecessor. On February 2, 2017 then-National Security Advisor Michael Flynn put Iran "on notice" in reaction to an Iranian missile test and an attack on a Saudi warship by Iranian-backed Houthi rebels. On the following day Trump tweeted, "Iran is playing with fire — they don't appreciate how 'kind' President Obama was to them. Not me!"

"It's one of the worst deals ever made." This is how Trump repeatedly described President Barack Obama's hallmark foreign policy achievement – the nuclear deal with Iran.

....

Avner Golov, Ph.D. is a Harry S. Truman Scholar at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University a research fellow at the Institute for National Security Studies, and a doctoral fellow at the Israeli Institute. He was recently awarded the Morris Abrams award. Previously Golov served on Israel's National Security Staff.*

For full article, see:

https://warontherocks.com/2017/04/a-new-approach-to-iran-huddle-block-and-tackle/