ADL

#50Voices50Years

Gilead Sher / May 28, 2017

It seems that the admirable victory of the 19-year-old Israel fighting for its life in June 1967 has not been translated, as of yet, into serving the core values of a Jewish-democratic state.

I have no question whatsoever on the Jewish People's right to self-determination in its own state in Eretz Yisrael. Nor have I any doubt that the Palestinian People has the right to self-determination in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Israel has reached globally outstanding achievements in myriad fields – science, culture, academy, hi-tech, economy, agriculture, literature, medicine, security, resilience, while absorbing millions of immigrants.

….

Gilead Sher heads the Center for Applied Negotiations at the Tel Aviv Institute for National Security Studies INSS*. He is a former Israeli chief and co-chief negotiator at the Camp David summit and the Taba talks, and served as former Prime Minister Ehud Barak's chief of staff and policy coordinator. Sher is an Israel Defense Forces colonel (res.). He co-chairs the nonpartisan organization Blue White Future and chairs Sapir Academic College.*

© 2017 Anti-Defamation League. All rights reserved.

For full article, see:

https://www.50voices50years.com/gilead-sher