

Independent and cutting-edge analysis on global affairs

Fall 2022

Complementary Facets: Türkiye-Israel Relations and The Abraham Accords

Contributors: Remi Daniel, Gallia Lindenstrauss, Yoel Guzansky

Wednesday, November 30, 2022

In August 2022, Türkiye and Israel decided to return high-level diplomatic representation to the respective country and normalize ties between the states. The current attempt at normalization comes at a time when Israel is developing a new set of relationships, most notably with some of the Arab Gulf states. At the same time Ankara is also emphasizing improving relations with these same actors. How do these processes relate to one another? Which aspects are contradictory and which are complementary? Can these processes be combined? While currently these normalizations are occurring in parallel, one may envision trilateral cooperation among the actors in the future. More specifically, there is potential for Israel-UAE-Türkiye to join hands, as these are all regional economic powerhouses, and this may prove to be the leading route for furthering regional cooperation.

...

Contributors:

Rémi Daniel  Rémi Daniel is a Neubauer Research Associate at the Institute for National Security Studies (INSS), Tel Aviv University.	Gallia Lindenstrauss  Dr. Gallia Lindenstrauss is a Senior Research Fellow at INSS.	Yoel Guzansky  Dr. Yoel Guzansky is a Senior Research Fellow at INSS and a Non-Resident Scholar at the Middle East Institute, Washington, D.C.
---	---	---

For full article:

<http://turkishpolicy.com/article/1165/complementary-facets-turkiye-israel-relations-and-the-abraham-accords#.Y4pGgQDtmXM.twitter>