

An article by Prof. Kobi Michael and Dr. Ori Wertman

The screenshot shows a web browser displaying an article on the Strategy International website. The article title is "The State of Israel under a strategic load in the test of the encounter between external threats and distress at home". The date is May 3, 2023, 9:00 am. The author is Prof. Kobi Michael and Dr. Ori Wertman. The article is categorized under Defence & Military, Global, International Security & Strategy, MIDEA Region & Gulf, Opinion Editorials, Peace & Conflict Resolution, Risk Assessments, Strategic Affairs, Threats & Future Challenges. The abstract discusses the strategic challenges Israel faces at the beginning of 2023, including regional and international threats, internal crisis, and the promotion of judicial reform. The article is part of a series of strategic challenges, which create an unusual strategic load especially due to the connection between complex challenges and threats from outside with political and social tension at home. Along with Iran's advancement to the status of a nuclear

On the right side of the article, there is a vertical menu with the following categories: Energy Security, Health Security & Genetics, Human Security & Gender Equality, International Market Economics, International Security & Strategy, Maritime & Global Logistics, National Security, and Peace & Conflict Resolution. Each category has a right-pointing arrow next to it.

For full article:

<https://strategyinternational.org/2023/05/03/the-state-of-israel-under-a-strategic-load-in-the-test-of-the-encounter-between-external-threats-and-distress-at-home/>