"In this asymmetric war, despite all the challenges it poses, the Israeli army always respects the laws of war," says Pnina Sharvit Baruch, a researcher at the Israeli think-tank INSS and former head of the legal department of the IDF. "In the case of beacons, it respected the principles of distinction and proportionality to target enemy forces. Some dispute this. But what should have been done to achieve the same military result? Bombing? If the security alternative for Israel is not fulfilled."
